TL;DR

This is the best kit I have ever seen. It's all packaged nicely in a box which has everything tucked nicely inside it in a mesh bag. There's tons on information on the packaging about the ingredients and company ethics. Nothing gets me wetter than a company that has awesome ethics.

Review:

The kit includes:

A small bottle of each of the lubes (25ml)

2 Applicators of water based lube (5ml)

1 sachet of each type of lube

The applicators are brilliant. The company sells packages of them from 6-30 applicators. I love using lube, but I hate getting it everywhere. With these, you can just insert and squeeze. Voila! Lubricated! VIVA LA LUBRALUCION! I think I need a thousand of these. They only come in the water based formula, even with that, I still think it is brilliant!

The bottles have a flip top, so you have to squeeze the lube out, but both formulas are thick, so there isn't a big worry about getting it all over the place by squeezing too much. The bottle look alike, but the caps and words are in a different color to differentiate them. The water based is silver and the oil is gold.

Ok, I am positive you are sick of hearing about the packaging, so let's talk body safety. Yes has ethics as a company. Their products are natural, body safe, vegan, and environmentally friendly. How fucking awesome is that? I am allergic to everything, but there was no issues with either of these.

I only use the oil for anal sex. because oil bases can sometime disrupt the natural functions of a vagina, and I would just prefer not to worry about it. The oil is amazing for anal sex. It's long lasting and thick which is hard to find in a silicone lube.

The water based is one of the longest lasting water based lubes I have used. It's thick like a gel, but smooths easily and feels super natural. I love using it with girthy toys on my own. It stays in place on the toy perfectly without me having to spread it out. I am weird and don't like lube-y hands. It's nice enough for anal toys, but it's' not my favorite. It's a bit thinner than my favorite lube for anal toys.

This set is a fantastic way to give Yes a try. You get a bit of everything and can try the applicators. Plus, it's cheap and generous!

Kink Uses:

We love the applicators for use at the dungeon. It's a great way to lube up for toys or sexy times without making a mess. I am dying for more of these just for that use alone.
